CASE ROCKIN' BLOCK PARTIES SUPPORT HABITAT FOR HUMANITY

Case projects donating $80,000

RACINE, Wis. (June 4, 2009) – Case Construction Equipment and its dealers across North America are supporting Habitat for Humanity chapters and project raising as much as $80,000 in 2009.

This contribution from Case is part of the company's ongoing efforts to provide support to local Habitat for Humanity affiliates. Two years ago, Case launched its partnership with Habitat for Humanity and has raised more than $140,000. In addition, Case and its dealers and have helped build several homes in their local communities.

"As a manufacturer of equipment used to build homes, businesses and infrastructure, Case is in a unique position to support the efforts of local Habitat for Humanity affiliates across North America," said Jim Hasler, vice president of Case Construction Equipment, Inc.

During the week of June 15-19, Case employees will help build a home for Racine Habitat for Humanity. This will be the third home Case employees have built for the local Habitat for Humanity affiliate. "We have been a part of Racine history for more than 165 years, and are pleased to support our community through causes like Habitat for Humanity," Hasler said. "We're fortunate that so many of our employees volunteer their time to make a difference for a local family in need."

Case Construction Equipment's affiliation with Habitat extends far beyond Wisconsin. Before the end of the year, Case expects 40 or more Case dealers to host Rockin' Block Parties to celebrate 40 years of producing Case skid steers. In conjunction with these events, Case dealers will each make a contribution to local Habitat for Humanity affiliates. Some dealerships have also put teams together for local Habitat for Humanity home builds.

During the Rockin' Block Parties, Habitat for Humanity affiliates will have the opportunity to accept donations, generate awareness and recruit volunteers. Because many Case customers are skilled contractors, their volunteer contributions are very much appreciated. Through the Rockin' Block Party events, several dozen communities will benefit through donations from Case, its dealers and hundreds of contractors.

Since 1976, Habitat for Humanity has built more than 300,000 houses around the world, providing safe, decent, affordable shelter for more than 1.5 million people in more than 3,000 communities. For more information, visit www.habitat.org.
